The Way To Uganda

By: Triston Jones a good friend :) no idiot >:(

<--- Uganda Knuckles

One day there was a little red echidna and his name was Uganda Knackles. He was lost on an island with his 5,000 brothers. There were people on the island and they asked if they knew the way to their queen. All the brothers didn't know the way. Only one person knew the way and they said that it was in a volcano! The brothers found a rusty boat docked in the sand and used it to get to the other island with the volcano. Once they got there they started to climb. The brothers got to the top and they remembered that they had to go into the volcano! So they held hands and jumped in. It didn't burn them. There was a portal at the bottom and they swam to it. But the volcano erupted and most of them flew out but some made it in. they had to swim and climb all over again! After two hours of climbing (again) they made it to the top. They jumped back in and the portal was still there. After they swam and got sucked in they had to wait a while until they got to the other side. They flew out and they were at a grassy place and the queen was standing there looking at the echidnas. She was so happy to see all of the 5,000 brothers. After a while telling the queen what happened they had a celebration by eating McDonalds food. NO ONE ever in this world knew how they got out of their home, Uganda.

THE END